Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 11 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Feeling warm with sunny spells.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry with sunny spells continuing into the evening. It then remains dry overnight with lengthy clear spells throughout. A fresher feeling night with wind gusts easing. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Saturday:
A largely dry and bright start with plenty of sunny spells through the morning. Lengthy sunny spells continue through the afternoon and into the evening. Feeling warm but breezy. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Lengthy sunny spells through Sunday and feeling very warm. Cloudy with the risk of some patchy rain during Monday morning, slowly turning brighter later. Dry with sunny spells on Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.